FIRST YANK TANK BATTLE IN FRANCE

STORY ON PAGE 2

19 Hurt, 70 Rescued as Liberty Ship Burns at N. Y. Pier—Fed by oil, flames sweep empty Liberty Ship tied to Hudson river pier in New York City . . . injuring at least 19 men, while 70 others are rescued. Flames, which shot upward a hundred feet, forced some crewmen and Coast Guard fire fighters to leap into the water.

U.S. Tanks Cut 4-Mile Wedge

By GLADWIN HILL

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, July 26 (AP)—U. S. tanks, in their first major operation in France smashed a breach four miles deep in the first German defense line west of St. Lo today and hammered into a flaming battle with enemy armor in the streets of Marigny.

The heavy thrust, with infantrymen riding the steel tanks and bombers pacing the way, endangered thousands of badly-battered German forces along the enemy's southern defenses.

It penetrated the outer crust of Nazi defenses in a couple of hours, carrying four miles south of the St. Lo-Periers road, and smashed against the first heavy enemy defenses near Marigny. This is a road junction just north of the highway angling southwest from St. Lo to Coutances near the west coast.

2½-MILE BREACH

The break-through was scored on a front 2½ miles wide.

To the northeast, other American infantrymen, hitting a five-mile front, advanced a mile and a half, capturing La Chapelle-en-Juger. Fighting was fierce in this sector, with casualties on both sides.

German troops on the east flank meanwhile fought with suicidal fury trying to halt the British-Canadian advance below Caen.

Savage fighting raged in Marigny, as the Germans tried to brace to avoid entrapment of units still in position along the St. Lo-Periers line.

Heavily-armored Sherman tanks crunched forward after a furious aerial bombardment had dazed frontline German defenders. Even though supported immediately by heavy artillery fire, the Germans were unable to beat back the tanks, spurting shells and bullets, and the American infantrymen aboard them who whooped in their pleasure at riding into battle for a change.

The infantrymen with rifles picked off German rocket gunners.

The whole 25-mile American front from St. Lo to the sea rocked to the thunder of a tremendous artillery barrage just before dawn. Then came wave after wave of attacking Marauders and fighter bombers. Gen. Bradley's doughboys made local advances despite heavy German resistance.

Marshal Rommel was throwing in armor against the British and Canadians. Packs of upward of 30 and 40 German tanks attacked at a time, but in the main the British and Canadians were holding gains of yesterday.

FRANCE—Yanks continue push forward in Cherbourg peninsula . . . with tanks battling Nazis in streets of Marigny. In the air medium bombers aided in the new drive which got under way at dawn.

RUSSIA—Red Army units fight on east bank of Wisla river, northwest of Sadurki . . . as other units press on toward Warsaw.

2 New Attacks On Jap Bases

By Associated Press

Powerful Allied naval task forces operating 3000 miles apart have assaulted Palau in the western Pacific, 350 miles from the Philippines, and Sabang in the Dutch East Indies, the Japanese radio said today.

A U. S. task force made up chiefly of carriers struck Palau on an unspecified date, Tokyo said, and two out of 30 attacking planes were shot down. This unconfirmed announcement added, in the usual Japanese vein, that damage was small.

Cruisers, destroyers, submarines and carrier planes hit Sabang yesterday, the Japanese said in another unconfirmed broadcast, raiding the harbor and city there. Two Allied destroyers and a submarine were sunk, Tokyo said.

LAST HIT APRIL 19

Sabang, situated on We island just off northwest Sumatra, was last attacked April 19 by a British-American French-Dutch naval force which smashed nearly every military installation in sight.

The Palau attack, if true, was a logical follow-up to the steady American progress on invaded Guam and Tinian to the north in the Marianas.

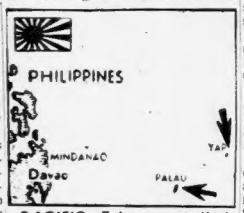
Palau is one of Japan's most strategic sea fortresses and harbors, the center of her South Sea government. Its 100 islands shield the southern Philippines.

Their geography explains its importance: It lies 530 miles east of Mindanao; 810 miles southwest of Guam; 800 miles northwest of Hollandia, Gen. MacArthur's big base on New Guinea, and is close to the Dutch East Indies.

TASK FORCE 58 STRIKES

The islands were hit a stunning three-day blow starting March 29. Task Force 58—"the most powerful and destructive naval unit in the history of sea warfare"—destroyed 28 Japanese ships and about 200 planes in the first U. S. foray into the western Carolines.

Most of the enemy fleet, tipped of 58's coming, fled out of harm's way, but the blow paved the way for the Saipan landings in June.



PACIFIC—Tokyo reports Yank carrier force penetrates to Palau and Yap, east of the Philippines, and 30 planes attack islands.

U. S. Fliers Aid Lwow Attack

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, July 26 (AP)—Hard-riding Cossacks reached the east bank of the Wisla (Vistula) river today while other Russians, supported for the first time by U. S. planes in direct, tactical operations surrounded the mauled German garrison at Lwow and stormed into that great rail city.

The Wisla was reached in the Pulawy area, 66 miles southeast of threatened Warsaw. There the cossacks engaged the battered Germans within 358 miles of Berlin and 142 miles of German Silesia.

Lightnings and Mustangs of the 6. S. 15th air force flew from U. S. bases in Russia, destroying 38 German planes in the Lwow area without loss. They strafed an airdrome 100 miles northwest of the surrounded city and shot up German transport and gun positions. Often they skimmed the trees to machine gun fleeing Nazis.

Beyond the Wisla, a rolling plain ideal for tanks and Cossacks on horses, invites swift advance.

Other Russians, driving frontally on Warsaw along the main trunk railway from Kiev, were reported between 40 and 50 miles from the Polish capital.

Hungary and Czechoslovakia were in the path of yet another Russian army which virtually surrounded Stanislawow and reached within 28 miles of the Hungarian-held Tatar Pass in the Carpathians.

German garrisons at Bialystok and Brest-Litovsk, far behind advancing Russian lines, appeared trapped.

Gen. Bagramian's first Baltic army encircled Daugvpils (Dvinck), largest city in eastern Latvia, after severing the railway to Riga on the Baltic, last valve for the German 16th and 18th armies. Perhaps 30 Nazi divisions were threatened by thes napping of the rail line.

Other Russians were on the approaches of East Prussia. They captured Lipsk, three miles from the Sulwaki triangle (which East Prussia annexed in the Russian-German partition of Poland in 1939) and within 25 miles of the pre war boundary of that province of the Prussian Junkers. (German reports have placed the Russians within eight miles of East Prussia proper.)

The 25th German general since June 23 surrendered in the Lwow area.

Twin advances by Konev's First Ukrainian army were flanking the fortress of Przemysl, 60 miles due west of Lwow, on the road to Silesia.

Robots Shower Incendiaries

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—The Germans battered London and southern England with flying bombs at regular intervals during the night after one of the longest daylight respites which this country has experienced from the robot attacks since D-Day.

Air raid wardens reported that during raids incendiaries—apparently dropped by the robots—fell at several places in the southern counties, suggesting the Nazis were employing some new device.

Two patients were killed and 250 escaped unhurt when a robot bomb hit a hospital in southern England. A fire fed by ether set off the main staircase, and patients were carried down the fire escapes.

Gloomy Berlin's Alibi:

Reds Attack In Wrong Places

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—The Russians "no longer are very far from their objectives" in drives toward Warsaw and Riga, the Berlin radio commentator, Martin von Hallensleben, said today in a gloomy review which called the Red offensive the greatest of the war.

(Dispatches from Moscow said the Red army was within 50 miles of Warsaw and 70 from Riga.)

Hallensleben, in a DNB news broadcast, said the Russians, by attacking "where large-scale operations should not have been undertaken," had pierced lightly-held German lines and as a result "the whole prudently calculated German defense system was threatened."

The commentator declared "nothing that can be compared with the power and extent of the forces and material resources of the present Soviet offensive has ever been seen at any moment of this war."

Nazi Peace Bid To Reds Seen

LONDON, July 26 (INS)—A strong belief that Germany soon will make a desperate last-minute bid for peace with Russia, based upon capitulation but not unconditional surrender, prevailed today among diplomatic circles in London.

Reports are current that Heinrich Himmler favors almost any sort of deal with the Soviets, and these sources asserted Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian, newly-appointed chief of staff, long has been known to incline favorably toward an entente with Russia, as against the Western powers.

Japs Run Into Ocean Under Fire Blanketing Guam Area

PEARL HARBOR, July 26 (AP)—Yank invaders of Guam, so firmly established that their general said, "There's nothing the Jap can do now to run us off," laid fiery siege today to Nipponese trapped by a juncture of American forces behind Port Apra.

Some hapless Japs jumped into the ocean, reported Al Dopking, Associated Press war correspondent, as battleships, carrier planes and hill-based artillery blanketed the sealed off Orote peninsula.

This neck of land, embracing an airfield and Sumay naval base, forms the southern end of the prized harbor behind which Marines and soldiers moved from north and south beachheads to the juncture.

"A pall of smoke from bombs and shells hangs over the peninsula like a masterful piece of satanic art," wrote John R. Henry, representing the combined Allied press, from the shattered town of Agat on the south beachhead. He hinted that a Yank drive out on the peninsula was impending.

Dopking said all Japs have been wiped out at the beachheads; and the Nips are abandoning much food and ammunition.

While one arm of the north beachhead force forked down behind Port Apra, another reached northeast to threaten Guam's capital city of Agana. Yanks slowly fought their way up dominating hills where, Henry said, Japs in caves "had to be mined out like hard coal."

HARTFORD, Ct., July 26 (AP)—The death toll of the Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey circus fire of July 6, reached 166 today with the death of Mrs. Ada Hindle, 64, of Norwichr.

Allies Grind Nearer Florence

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

ROME, July 26 (INS)—Allied troops gained along a 30-mile front south of Florence today, particularly west of the Poggibonsi-Florence road, where advanced elements approached San Casciano, 12 miles southwest of Florence.

Gains of as much as three miles were scored west of the Arezzo-Pontassieve road. One enemy line of resistance six miles northwest of Arezzo has been pierced.

Local gains were chalked up in the upper Tiber river valley and also in the area south of San Sepolcro.

American Fifth Army troops are encountering stubborn German resistance in the Pisa area.

The Germans continued to shell that part of Pisa lying south of the Arno river.

View Photos In Probe of Girl Murder

Two State Police photographic and fingerprint experts were the first of more than 200 witnesses to testify as an inquest unique in Massachusetts criminal investigation opened at Hingham district court today in the baffling slaying of little Frances McGrath.

First witness to appear at the inquest hel din the lobby of Judge Francis Geogan was Sgt. William Ratigan.

He carried two dozen enlarged photographs into the hearing and whhen he emerged after a 15-minute stay, said the pictures included those taken of the girl's body and other evidence at the Norwell grove where the child was found slain June 16.

He was followed into the hearing room by Sgt. George Roach, another photograph and fingerprint expert.

Waiting to testify were Police Chief Michael Stewart of the Scituate police, Lt. George Walker, state police chemist; Dr. Walter Jetter, assistant state pathologist, and Drs. Norbert Lough and William Hines, medical examiners.

Every official taking part in the investigation and every witness and person questioned since hte child's body was found will tetify under oath during the inquest, which is expected to last from five days to two weeks.

Chief hope of the inquest is that all testimony will be under oath and that anyone found to have given false evidence will be subject to prosecution for perjury or contempt of court.

Goodwin Job To Speaker King

House Speaker Rudolph E. King, of Millis, unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor in the recent primaries, was appointed state registrar of motor vehicles today.

The appointment, made by Public Works Commissioner Herman A. MacDonald, was submitted to the Executive Council for confirmation. The position starts at $5760 annually and has a ceiling of $6660.

King, member of the Legislature for eight years and speaker for two, succeeds Frank A. Goodwin, who resigned on reaching the retirement age. Goodwin earlier this month won the Republican nomination for state auditor.

The new registrar is the manager of a wholesale leather concern in Boston.

Thursday May See Showers

Boston enjoyed a typical summer day today with moderate breezes giving a refreshing change from the humid, sticky weather of the past few days.

Weather bureau officials said the mercury would climb to the middle 80's during the day and there would be no change before tomorrow when possible showers might occur during the afternoon.

The prospect, however, was not encouraging for Victory gardeners, who have been scanning the skies anxiously all this month in hope of rain for their crops. Total rainfall thus far in July has been only 1.28 inches.

Firemen confined the flames to the basement. Cause of the fire and explosions was not determined.

Dies as Mercy Killing Fails

NEW YORK, July 26—His great love for his son Joseph, 24-year-old history teacher, moved Sidney Domovs, 55, a chemist, to attempt a mercy death and then take his own life unaware that he had not accomplished his mission.

This was the police verdict today after the death of the kindly and gay father and conference with Joseph's physician, Dr. Harry Miller of Brooklyn.

Joseph has cancer of the lung and a final consultation showed he could not live more than a year —and that the year would be spent in endless pain.

Told the tragic truth, Domovs went to his Brooklyn home and spent two days administering to his son's every want. Then he could stand it no longer.

Joseph, who still does not know the cruel fate ahead, told police his dad gave him a spoonful of some bitter liquid and then hurried to an adjoining bathroom. The youth said he spat the stuff out and, alarmed because his dad did not answer, summoned police, who battered down the bathroom door.

There they found the chemist dead of a dose of corrosive acid, probably the same liquid the youth marked for mercy death did not swallow.

But Mrs. Domovs and another son, Kelvin, 18, an engineering student, now know Joseph's ailment. He has been taken to Israel Zion Hospital for treatment of what he thinks are "chest pains."

Fight at St. Lo In Jungle Style

(William Randolph Hearst, Junior, in a series of five articles of which this is the third, describes his visit to the American sector of the Normandy battlefront.)

By WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, JUNIOR
Publisher, New York Journal-American

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN NORMANDY, July 26—The battleground around St. Lo has been aptly described as "jungle fighting in the garden of Eden."

The countryside here is made up of little French fields, bordered on all sides by very high hedgerows, sometimes by double banks of them with a ditch in between.

They provide perfect protection for defensive warfare.

There is no place where you can get on any high ground to get a general view of the action.

KEEP ON DRIVING

You just keep on driving until they stop you and then go by foot.

Driving up around there, our little car was almost blown off the road by the impact of our guns firing over our heads from batteries located just off the road.

Though it scared the daylights out of us, we stopped and went to talk to the boys.

This battery was composed of 155 mm. howitzers. And almost every field near us had great guns in it and the firing goes on all day and all night.

These boys had been up in the front line for five days, sometimes only getting as little sleep as four hours out of 24, and they all looked dead tired.

Between salvos, they either catch catnaps, or refresh themselves by sponging their faces with cold water. They slowed up a little in their firing to talk to us for a moment while we were there. However, that did not stop the guns in adjoining fields from keeping up their thunderous barrage.

QUIZZING PRISONERS

When Burris Jenkins, New York Journal-American's noted artist, finished sketching, we drove on further down the road, turning in at a field marked "Advance Prisoner of War Camp."

They had about 50 prisoners there, plus a couple of French peasants picked up on suspicion.

A high percentage of prisoners were Polish, Russian or Austrian. The chief interrogating officer let us stay while he questioned them.

All conversation was in German, but as he went along he would stop and explain each question to us.

An Austrian who said he had joined the Nazi party against his mother's wishes but with his father's approval, now felt that Hitler had not lived up to any of his promises.

Hitler had not given the Austrians their independence, he recalled, and the sooner the war was over the better.

We asked them where they thought the Luftwaffe was.

They just looked sheepish and said they did not know.

One Nazi was particularly arrogant.

He said our artillery was "unfair."

I asked him what he meant.

He said it kept coming over all the time and gave us an unfair advantage.

Having seen our own American youngsters in action, I am willing to bet my life they are much more than able to hold their own any time with the Germans man for man on an equal footing.

That night we slept in an advanced command post in an old chateau.

Guns boomed occasionally during the night, but they really went to work at 4 o'clock in the morning. Our infantry went forward at 5 o'clock.

The attack only lasted about an hour, so a little later we went on farther to the battalion command post and walked down the road lined on one side with G. I.'s foxholes to a company command post at a very forward field.

In the field were men who had just come from the front line. They were tired and worn.

Toxic Picnic Kills Pappy, Super-Rat

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Nervous clerks in the War Department's Pentagon building are breathing easier these days, for "Pentagon Pappy," the super-rat, has fallen victim to a Mickey Finn ham sandwich.

In his way Pappy was as fabulous as the structure itself. Those who saw him described him as somewhere between a house-cat and a Russian wolfhound in size.

But the exterminators, who finally got him with a poison picnic, found Pappy to be only a little under the record length for government issue rats—20 inches.

They identified him as a Norwegian or brown rat, a tribe of tough babies which, according to the fish and wildlife service, muscled in, about the time of the American Revolution, on the smaller black and Alexandrian rats which came over from Europe with the first settlers at Jamestown.

John J. Curley Dies, Aged 71

John J. Curley, 71, brother of Cong. James M. Curley and U. S. comptroller of customs at Boston, died today at his home in Winthrop st., Roxbury.

He was stricken with pneumonia recently, but appeared to be recovering. He suffered a relapse Sunday and failed to rally.

Efforts were made to overtake Cong. Curley, who, with his wife, was en route to Camp Crowder, Mo., to visit Mrs. Curley's sons by a previous marriage, George and Richard Dennis.

John Curley was the first Massachusetts man named to the comptroller post in more than 80 years. He was appointed by President Roosevelt in December, 1942.

A lifelong resident of Roxbury, he was the eldest son of Michael and Sarah Curley. In 1910 he was appointed deputy tax collector of Boston and four years later was promoted to collector by his brother.

In 1927 he was named city treasurer and in November, 1936, he became chairman of the Board of Tax Appeal, then he was appointed to the State Utilities Commission.

He was a member of the Democratic state committee and served 25 years as chairman of the Boston ward and city committee.

Besides his brother, his widow and five daughters survive.

Japs Shell Yanks On New Guinea

NEW GUINEA, July 26 (INS)—Japanese 18th army forces, frustrated in their attacks against American positions southeast of Aitape, have opened up artillery fire against the Yanks while trying to reform shattered units south of Afua, a spokesman for Gen. MacArthur said today.

Hemmed in a seven-mile jungle corridor between Wewak and Aitape, the Japs have suffered heavy losses in their repeated but futile thrusts against the American perimeter.

Allied airmen continue to make life miserable for the enemy, bombing and strafing Japanese rear areas, starting numerous fires.

Five more Japanese barges were wrecked by American destroyers and motor torpedo boats patrolling coastal areas. Traffic along the coastal road was shelled.

Bud Mars Dies, Piloted Hirohito

LOS ANGELES, July 26 (AP)—James C. (Bud) Mars, pioneer balloonist and aviator who gave Emperor Hirohito of Japan his first airplane ride, died yesterday of heart failure at the National Military Home Hospital.

The Japanese, then crown prince, sat clutching the struts as Mars took him aloft in a Curtiss plane in 1911, said the airman's widow, Mrs. Edna Mars. Since Pearl Harbor, she added, Mars had often expressed the wish that the craft had cracked up. The prince's father gave Mars the Order of the Rising Sun for the flight.

Shaw, at 88, Sees No Lasting Peace Now Possible

(George Bernard Shaw is 88 years old today. Asked for his views on certain postwar problems, he delivered the manuscript of the following in shorthand, with a note saying he had no time to transcribe it.)

By GEORGE BERNARD SHAW
(Written for the Associated Press)

LONDON, July 26—Do I believe a lasting peace can be assured by a close-working and vigorous post-war alliance of the "big four"—Great Britain, the United States, Russia and China?

No. A lasting peace cannot be assured by any measures at present possible. Even a postwar alliance of the big four cannot be assured. The people who clamor for assurances and security are public nuisances.

Whatever arrangements follow the war we must still live dangerously, whether we like it or not.

(To a series of questions, Mr. Shaw wrote the following replies):

Question—Should Germany be totally disarmed and split into small, separate states such as existed before they were united under Bismarck?

Shaw—No. If disarmament and disintegration are desirable for Germany they are desirable for all the big powers as well. None of them will consent to it. The sort of armament that decides modern wars is so enormously expensive and needs such a big organization of industry that small states are virtually disarmed at present; and America and Russia hold the balance of military power.

All this talk about disarmament is a hundred years out of date.

Question—Should the German people be permitted to choose and elect their own form of government immediately after the war? Or should there be an interim government of Great Britain, the United States and Russia? For how long a period?

Shaw: If the German people are not permitted to choose and elect their own form of government, the government must be imposed on them by the Allies, in which case it will not be their own form of government. It will be like our Indian Civil Service, the only available model, except that the nationality of its members will be mixed. This would end as the Indian Service is ending.

As none of the Allies except Russia has yet succeeded in governing itself decently or even feeding its whole population sufficiently—India has just lost two millions of people through a preventable famine—we could hardly pretend to be better able to govern Germany than the Germans. The interim government will be simply martial law.

Question: What should be the punishment of German war leaders and how far down into the ranks should the punishment extend?

Shaw: Punishment for what? For being war leaders? Do you think that the heavy job of restoring half-ruined Europe could be done by persons with their heads full of punishment? The least hint of such a preoccupation should disqualify a diplomatist from taking any part in the organization of peace.

Question: Do you favor a prolonged armistice, rather than an immediate formal peace, and how long should Allied troops occupy Germany?

Shaw: This is a mug's alternative. As long as war lasts as an institution, no peace can be anything but an armistice.

Question: Do you believe that the Germans—under whatever guise—will always produce an imperial kaiser or dictator to lead them in plunging the world into war?

Shaw: All unhappy and suppressed nations will run after any able adventurer who promises to deliver them. Our business therefore is not to make any nation unhappy or suppress it. If we had not suppressed Germany after 1918 there would have been no Hitler. And Hitler would have been as successful as Julius Caesar if, like Caesar, he had made the people he conquered happier than they were before.

Vets Ask Who Began Feting Italian Captives

Every major veterans' organization in Massachusetts today was arrayed in one solid protesting phalanx against the Army's system of coaxing work out of former Italian prisoners of war by promises of frolic and fun. On every hand were demands that they be reverted to their original status of prisoners of war and treated as such under the rules of international law.

But the big question that leaders of veterans' groups were seeking today was the answer to who it was that originated this scheme of open-armed welcome to men who shot down American soldiers.

The Army thus far has been silent, but it is expected the civilian "bigwigs" and Army leaders who hatched the plan will be forced into talking before the approaching American Legion and VFW conventions.

CONDEMNED BY DELAY

Latest to join in the demand that Italian arrogance be stamped out is John L. Delay, state commander of the American Legion, who at a dinner to Clarence J. Hill, state commander of the Disabled War Veterans, said:

"It is about time the U. S. Army and the American government start treating its Italian prisoners like prisoners of war rather than as guests of the nation who impose on that hospitality by arrogance, insolence and attempts to create civil disorders."

"I served in Italy in the last war," Delay continued, "and I can tell you our boys that were captured were shown little consideration.

"I wonder how many of our sympathetic and misguided women who send wine, candy and Italian dishes to these prisoners—already fed better Army rations than our soldiers in France—ever have thought about sending some gift to our men in German and Italian prison camps. Believe me, they are the boys who really need it."

Hill also voiced a protest of coddling of prisoners and said his organization would speak its mind at the next convention.

DEMANDS NEW POLICY

Another was John B. Powers, adjutant of the State Department of the VFW, who is sending to Washington a demand for stiff regulations for prisoners in this country.

Natick mothers planned a ban against entertainment of Italian internees in that town. They charged a near riot developed last week when a wounded American soldier, Cpl. James Arsenault, entered the hall of a local organization and criticized dining and wining of 25 Italian prisoners who were being treated like heroes.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary also plan to shut off funds for entertainment except for wounded Americans and will discuss the measure at a meeting tonight in Tremont Temple.

Buccigross Due Back on Job

With the nol prossing of the indictment charging him with neglect of duty in connection with the Cocoanut Grove fire which claimed nearly 500 lives on Nov. 28, 1942, Police Capt. Joseph A. Buccigross today became eligible for immediate reinstatement to duty.

"As soon as the captain comes in to see me I will order him reinstated at once," Police Commr. Thomas F. Sullivan said. The commissioner, however, did not indicate to what post Buccigross would be assigned.

Buccigross, who was in the club at the time of the fire, has been under suspension since his indictment on Dec. 31, 1942.

In nol-prossing the charge, Atty. Gen. Robert T. Bushnell said that Buccigross, as night captain of the Warren ave. station which embraces the night club district, "had nothing whatever to do with the shaping or making of policies under which the Boston police department was administered."

Although the captain's reinstatement was assured, a legal battle appeared likely over whether he is entitled to almost 19 months back pay.

The charge against the police captain was the final case on the criminal docket involving defendants in the Grove disaster.

Notes Reveal Boy as Robber

Notes signed, "The Sandman," which he left in stores that he robbed, led today to the Roxbury court arraignment of a 17-year-old boy, who, police said, had confessed to 12 breaks into business establishments in Greater Boston.

The youth was arrested in his basement room in Ingleside st., Roxbury, where police reported they found a considerable amount of the loot, including clothing stolen in breaks into nine stores in Roxbury, two in Dorchester and one in Mattapan.

"Thanks for the loot" and "put the money in a handier place next time" were some of the notes which the young robber left for proprietors over his signature as "The Sandman."

Capt. Edward B. Cain of the Dudley st. station said the boy received a five-year suspended Concord reformatory sentence July 7.

Mexican Volcano Erupts in Violence

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Paricutin has been erupting with greater violence during the last two days than at any time since it rose from a level plain in February, 1943, the communications ministry was advised by representatives there.

A British suggestion that the Allies write a provisional peace with Italy, which now has the combined standing of defeated enemy and co-belligerent, is before American authorities.

This was learned today, also that the plan awaits discussion with Russia and other countries interested in the Italian settlement.

As contemplated, the peace treaty would leave aside all territorial questions, and probably other final claims such as reparations, for later decision.

Primarily, it would serve to regularize Italy's relations with the United Nations, clarify the status of Italian war prisoners, and enable Italian soldiers to re-form and get into the front lines of the battle in their homeland.

TULELAKE, Cal., July 26 (AP)—Fourteen Japanese confined to a stockade in the Tulelake camp today began the eighth day of a hunger strike which they threaten to continue until they are admitted to the main area of the camp.

The strikers were placed in the stockade after being classified as troublemakers.

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—U. S. Marauders and fighter-bombers again supported the American First Army today smashing at German positions wave on wave and blazing the trail for a new dawn thrust south of the Periers-St. Lo road.

The dawn attack in Normandy followed RAF assaults in great strength over Germany. Stuttgart, engineering and rail center, was saturated for the second successive night. The British also struck Berlin, Bremen, Mannheim and Wanne-Eickel, despite severe electrical storms.

There were indications that the Reich was getting another pounding today, the German radio reporting that Allied bomber formations—apparently from Mediterranean bases—were winging in over Austria.

Walpole Ace Tells Worry As Trip Home Hangs Fire

July supposedly is the lucky month of Lt. John F. Thornell, Jr., outstanding Massachusetts ace, but he hasn't been having much of it in his efforts to get home on leave.

His most recent letter to his mother, Mrs. John F. Thornell, Sr., of Pleasant st., East Walpole, written from England last Thursday tells of his chafing at the delay and his plans to request reassignment to combat duty unless his transportation comes through within a week.

"I'm sweating out the waiting for transportation," wrote the young flier who is credited with bagging 25½ planes over Nazi-occupied Europe.

"I can't stand this waiting. It's tough to watch those you've flown with go out and it's tougher to be sitting idle when some of them don't come back.

"I do want to get home for a few precious days with all of you. But if something doesn't happen to get me there in the next few days, I hope you'll understand my requesting immediate reassignment to combat duty."

The young ace, who is noted among his flying companions for knocking off Nazi planes in bunches—he is credited with one triple and more than a half-dozen doubles—has been expected home for the past week.

Plans already had been completed at Walpole for a huge welcome for the homecoming ace, including a parade, public testimonial and party at Blackburn Memorial Hall. Arrangements were made by the Thomas H. Crowley Post, American Legion, and all that is needed now is the presence of Lt. Thornell.

Bristol Graft Probe In Nocturnal Revival

NEW BEDFORD, July 26—Like vengeful night riders of frontier days, squads of representatives of Atty.-Gen. Robert T. Bushnell are sweeping through four southeastern Massachusetts counties in a nocturnal effort to salvage something from a two-year investigation which has become known as the "Bristol County case."

The climax of the Bristol County case came several weeks ago in decisions by courts and juries on the evidence Bushnell and his aides had gathered over a two-year period.

But now, according to reports, the attorney-general apparently is driving toward an anti-climax by the "nocturnal nosing' which has aroused otherwise peaceful residents of Bristol, Barnstable, Dukes and Nantucket Counties.

Any and all persons believed to have information which might aid the investigators have been queried closely at their homes

Persons interrogated have complained that some interviews were held with them as late as midnight.

What will be the result of this nightly prowling in search of information still remains problematical.

County officials, however, are inclined to the belief that the outcome will be the filing by Atty.-Gen. Bushnell of bills of information against certain public officeholders.

SESSION HALTED

The unprecedented night-time questioning began after a special superior court session sought by Bushnell was halted unexpectedly last May by Judge Harold P. Williams. This is what the session did:

Mistrial ordered in trial of Dr. William F. Lynch, former county commissioner, and two others on conspiracy charges, because of Dr. Lynch's illness. No disposition made in case of Blair H. Parker, Norfolk Downs, who pleaded guilty to the indictment.

County Commr. Timothy Lovett and two others found not guilty by a jury on conspiracy charges, while Lovett and another man were absolved of a second conspiracy charge by directed verdict of Judge Williams.

Trial of Joseph P. Dyer of Fall River, on a charge of attempting to influence and corrupt another juror in a 1942 conspiracy trial, was halted last month here by Judge Jesse W. Morton.

Judge Morton declared he didn't wish to hear further evidence and to the request by Asst. Atty. Gen George Fingold to be heard, he replied:

"You can be heard, but I'll say now that the government has not produced a case beyond a reasonable doubt."

As a result of the illness of Dr. Lynch, he underwent an operation at a Fall River hospital. A doctor representing the attorney general was to have examined him last month before further action was taken in disposition of his case. But as yet the doctor has not appeared.

Meanwhile, the night-time questioning continues and public officials who have been in service for as long as a quarter-century are becoming incensed at what they describe as a campaign of "interference and innuendo."

"It's high time state officeholders were halted in their efforts to dominate grand juries and other individuals in the various counties," one official said. "It's time this campaign of venomous innuendo was ended."

Others pointed out that if conditions were so bad in the county of if there were cases needing prosecution, the law gave the attorney general and his staff full power to act in a legal manner and proceed in the proper way by letting the courts decide the matter.

Free Monastery Hostages in Italy

WITH EIGHTH ARMY IN ITALY, July 25 (delayed), (AP)—The lost hostages of Gubbio returned to their homes today as their German keepers fled into the hills, and Father Superior Peter Baptiste Micheli of St. Ubaldo monastery, where the hostages were held for a month, told how the Nazis had tried to employ him as a spy.

Some of the 213 civilians freed from the monastery said the Germans had warned them they would be machine-gunned if they attempted to escape.

One man, the relative of one of the hostages, was shot dead as he was carrying food to the monastery.

The day before they fled before advancing Allied troops, the Germans used the monastery to cook up a feast of chickens. The next day they were gone, the hostages said.

Hunt 250,000 Stolen Gas Coupons in Mid-State Area

Postal and OPA inspectors today centered search for 250,000 gallons worth of stolen gasoline coupons in Central Massachusetts communities after the first of the coupons, which vanished from the East Cambridge postoffice, turned up in Worcester.

The theft occurred July 13, when OPA authorities delivered a sack containing 60 pieces of mail, practically all containing gas rationing currency, destined for business firms, truck operators and taxi owners. They are of A, B, C, and TT variety.

At the same time, investigation was under way to establish responsibility for the theft. OPA authorities claim the pouch was delivered to the sub-postal station and signed for. Postal inspectors say they can find no record of its arrival.

Discovery of coupons at a Worcester gasoline station was the first break in a probe which began when several firms reported to OPA they still were waiting for their coupons to arrive.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY, July 26 (INS) — King George VI of Britain visited Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, commander of Allied ground forces in Italy, late today.

During the day the ships of Britain, the United States, France, Italy, Poland, Greece and Holland anded in review in Naples Harbor.

later he visited a forward airfield littered with the wreckage of German planes. Gen. Alexander met him at the field. From there he drove along an open highway cluttered with burned-out, bullet-riddled and otherwise wrecked German vehicles to Alexander's headquarters.

Man Held in $400 Marine Supply Thefts

An Italian-born former steward in the Merchant Marine admitted in police lineup today that he had taken marin esupplies valued at $400 because, he claimed, he was not paid enough for helping the owner of the supply store.

The man was arrested in the main postoffice last night by special officers from the Milk st. station, who claimed they found $40 worth of stolen goods and $180 in cash in his possession.

Allegedly stolen marine supplies valued at $400 were found in the man's lodgings in South Boston.

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain "undigested"—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any druggist. Only 10¢ and 25¢.

Brothers' Invasion Reunion

The story of a brothers' reunion under fire, off the coast of France, has come to their mother, Mrs. L. G. Newton of High st., Woburn.

Her younger son, Robert S. Newton, 18, Navy seaman, was in the crew of a landing barge receiving soldiers from a transport in the invasion armada. As the last Army man came down the transport's rope ladder, Newton reached up to give him a hand.

Then he took a second look. "Say, don't you know your own brother?" he demanded. It was PFC Richard Newton, 24, ordnance mechanic. They hadn't seen in each in 18 months.

The brothers celebrated with mugs of coffee, the barge headed for shore and the private scrambled to the beach to go on with his soldiering. Each wrote

Big Four Key Reich For Death Struggle

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, having in effect placed the Reich and occupied territories under an arch Nazi "big four," was believed today to be preparing a general mobilization of all manpower for a last ditch defense of Nazism.

A German news agency dispatch reaching Madrid quoted a German foreign office spokesman as saying that Germany was going to create new and important military reserves and that other countries "allied" with Germany would follow this program despite the cost.

GOEBBELS SPEAKS TODAY

Propaganda Chief Goebbels, newly named by Hitler as Reichs Commissar for total mobilization for war, will address the German nation by radio at 8:15 p. m. (2:15 PEW) today, Berlin announced. He may disclose plans which the Nazi chieftains have drafted for Germany's last fanatical struggle, and appeal for loyalty to Hitler.

In his new post Goebbels has become executor to Reichsmarshal Goering, appointed by Hitler last night as chairman of the ministerial council for defense of the Reich.

Thus Goering becomes dictator over all private and public life in Germany, charged with a total overhaul of state administration and public services "with the purpose of freeing the maximum manpower for the German army and the arms industry and of adapting the entire public life in every possible respect to the demands of total war."

FORM "BIG FOUR"

Forming the "big four" of Nazism to direct Germany's death battle are Hitler, Goering, Goebbels and Heinrich Himmler, the Gestapo chief appointed last week to be an all-powerful commander-in-chief of the army at home.

Reports reaching Barcelona said Hitler was preparing an order mobilizing "all Europeans in occupied countries" into the war effort without age or sex limitations.

One Nazi That Kindness Won

WORLAND, Wyo., July 26 (AP)—A farmer who employed German prisoners of war to work in his beet fields tells this story:

The prisoners voluntarily weeded his big vegetable garden after they overheard him say he had neither time nor labor to do the job. That noon, their last meal there, his wife served fried chicken, fresh vegetables, ice cream and cake.

Near the end of the meal a blond Nazi, once a noncommissioned officer, lowered his head and cried.

When he left he kissed the farmer's small son, said some day he would bring his young daughter to America to visit—or live if he were permitted.

A ramroad Nazi lieutenant said it was the first time in five years the man had shown any emotion.

The lieutenant stalked away, muttering at the passing of another Nazi.

THE PRIME OF LIFE CAN BE PROLONGED

Dr. Henry G. Sherman Says:

"A generous supply of Calcium results in better development of the young, a higher form of adult health, and a longer lease of what we may call the prime of life—the period between maturity and old age."

FOOD RATIONING MAY NOT SUPPLY SUFFICIENT CALCIUM SAYS CLAUDE WICKARD, U. S. Secretary of Agriculture.

Calcium is more often deficient in the diet than any other minerals. Calcium deficiency is a form of malnutrition that may be the cause of acidity, nervousness, fatigue, weakened heart muscles and other effects which hasten the onset of "OLD AGE" and shorten the "PRIME OF LIFE."

AM I NERVOUS?

Sleeplessness with ragged, jagged nerves, may be due to a calcium deficiency which upsets the parathyroid glands causing intense sensitivity of the whole nervous system.

DO I TIRE EASILY?

A calcium starved body tires easily. A calcium deficiency may cause an upset nerve system, less strength, energy and vitality. No person can be normal without a sufficient supply of calcium.

AM I OLD AT 40?

Old at 40, evidences of early aging, perhaps at 50 or 60, may be due to calcium deficiency. Calcium is needed, in adequate amount, in the repair and growth of body organs, tissues, cells. If your health is impaired, if you are run down, tired, old at 40 and nervous because you do not get enough Calcium or Phosphorus or Vitamin D or Vitamin B1 add KAL to your diet. See how much better you feel after KAL helps to build up, then maintain a normal Calcium-Phosphorus balance and help overcome the ill effects of a deficiency of the vital elements KAL so richly supplies.

Faith in Robot Ebbs, Nazi Captives Admit

By HUCK FINNEGAN

NORMANDY—They were a bedraggled lot, those German prisoners on a Normandy landing strip. They lay herded like cattle behind barbed wire, eating cold K rations. They had been captured only the day before between Carentan and St. Lo, yet their uniforms seemed threadbare in contrast to the uniforms of our MP's on guard. They were young and they were old, not the superb physical specimens of the Afrika Korps, for example.

In a pen apart from the Germans stood a solitary Frenchman, hair standing straight on end as if in terror, beard waving in the breeze.

"We're satisfied he is a De Gaullist," explained M. P. in charge, Lt. James Biscoe, a barrister from Washington, D. C. "He asked to be kept apart."

PRESSED INTO SERVICE

Lt. Biscoe weaved through the prisoners, pointing out a Pole here, a Russian there, all pressed into service by the Nazis in their glory days of 1939-42.

"You hear a lot about Japanese fighting with the Germans," Biscoe went on. "That's not true. They're from Mongolia, Tibet and Turkestan. Look a lot like our American Indians."

Where hadn't Hitler reached to recruit his forces? Small wonder he had so many divisions at his disposal. But the impressed soldiers weren't anxious to fight, not WITH the Germans.

Lt. Biscoe asked if any of the prisoners could speak English. Up stepped a corporal with a week's stubble on his face. His uniform was old, his boots thin. He wore a red-blue ribbon on his tunic, symbolic of receiving the Iron Cross twice.

"Are you satisfied with your treatment here?" asked Lt. Biscoe, and the German made haste to answer "yes." He was proud and replied that U. S. prisoners in Germany were being treated equally well. "We are living up to all the rules of the Geneva convention," he insisted.

HAD LIVED IN ENGLAND

He spoke with a decided English inflection, not the guttural German, but denied he was British. "I spent a year in England in 1932," he explained. "I also speak French. My mother was French."

He was 35, he said, and was a member of an engineer battalion. He spent two years fighting on the Russian front and wished he could have stayed there. "This American artillery," he said, "we cannot stand it. It is terrific."

He was happy to hear that he and the rest of the prisoners would have shelter and hot food tomorrow, but his eyes flamed when he was told that he probably would go to England. "Nein, Nein!" he implored. "I want no part of England. Send me to America, please."

This prisoner was 24 when Hitler came in power, yet like the 16-17-year-old Hitler fanatics, he was firmly convinced that the British torture and shoot their prisoners. Such are the evils of propaganda.

HIDDEN IN CAVE

"You know we took a German prisoner right on this beach 30 days after D-Day," said the lieutenant. "He and three others were hidden in a cave and his companions were killed when they tried to carry a message to their commander. This fellow slid back into the cave and since he had four men's rations, there was little danger of him starving. He was a Pole, yet he was so convinced the British would shoot him, he wouldn't surrender. He saw some colored troops in the vicinity and thought they were British Colonials. So he hid away again, and didn't come out until he was sure he was surrendering to Americans."

Lt. Biscoe asked the prisoner if he thought Germany had any chance of winning the war.

"The flying bomb gave us new hope," he explained, "but when we found out London wasn't razed and that it wasn't winning the war, our morale dropped again. We are weary from fighting."

CAPTIVES MERE BOYS

Lt. Biscoe asked the ages of several other prisoners. Two had just reached their 17th birthday and had been fighting two months. There could be no doubt that German's manpower problem was a trying one.

Time for dinner and the party repaired to "officers' mess," a tent-covered table large enough to seat 12. There with 11 officers sat Lorelle Hearst, wife of William Randolph Hearst, Junior, partaking of canned corned beef, canned peas, creamed potatoes, cold chocolate, bread and jam. She had arrived on the beachhead to watch the Ninth Air Force Service Command evacuate the wounded to England.

Veterans' Friend

Q—When a man is overseas in the service does he have the right to cut down the allowance to his wife and child to $40 per month? E. B., Medford.

A—No. Family allowance to a wife and child is $80 and cannot be reduced by the soldier whether he is overseas or in the United States.

Q—Would you please publish the pay of staff sergeant, technical sergeant and master sergeant? D. D., Roslindale.

A—The base pay is as follows: S/Sgt., $96; T/Sgt., $114; M/Sgt., $138. If living off the post, additional sums for quarters and ration.

Q—My son has been in the Pacific area for the past 27 months, serving in the Army. I have been informed that they are going to send boys home for a vacation who have been overseas two years. Is that true? Mrs. A. T., Somerville.

A—The War Department has put into operation a plan whereby those having served overseas will be given an opportunity to return on furlough. It is difficult to say just when your son will be returned, but there is no doubt that as soon as conditions permit he will come home. Already great numbers of men have been sent back.

Q—Having served overseas for almost a year and then returned to the United States, I got into some difficulties and was discharged for reason of bad conduct. I think that my case was not handled fairly and I would appreciate information as to how I might reopen it again. "Unhappy Veteran," Boston.

A—The "Veterans' Bill of Rights," also known as the "Servicemen's Act of 1944," contains legislation for the establishment of a board of review which will handle applications and hearings on discharges in such cases as yours.

Q—What is the status in regard to selective service when a man has been honorably discharged from the Navy since Dec. 7, 1941, in accordance with a medical survey board. What is his classification in the draft? "A Veteran."

A—He should be classified 1-C by his draft board. The draft board can recall him for examination to see whether or not he is physically qualified for service in the Army. It all depends on the reasons given for the naval medical discharge.

Q—I was sworn into Navy and waited 39 days before being called to active duty. Do I get credit for this time in connection with mustering-out pay. H. J. J., Boston.

A—Only time served on active duty is recognized in connection with mustering-out pay.

Q—I have five sons in the service and receive family allowance from only one. This does not keep things together at home very well and I am in need of additional aid. Could any of the others apply?

A—Yes. If the fact of dependency is established by a certificate, a mother may receive family allowance for more than one son.

(Questions submitted to Veterans' Friend Editor will be answered in the columns of the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser. If a personal reply is desired, enclose self-addressed and stamped envelope.)

Cotton Ed Defeated, Mrs. Caraway Trails

By the Associated Press

The end of a Senate trail that he set out on nearly 36 years beckoned today for the vociferous and colorful "Cotton Ed" Smith, New Deal-hating senator from South Carolina.

Smith was far back in second place in yesterday's Democratic primary and the man he trailed was Gov. Olin D. Johnston, who tried unsuccessfully, with President Roosevelt's help, to unseat the veteran in 1938.

And in Arkansas' Democratic primary, the Senate's only woman member, quiet Hattie Caraway, lagged far behind in a renomination try she had apparently thought was so safe she could afford to campaign only leisurely.

The leader there was Rep. J. W. Fulbright, 39, who is serving his first term in Congress. Fulbright, Ozark mountain native who grew up to become a Rhodes scholar and university president, gained his first real fame as the author of the "lasting peace" resolution in the House, which sought an international organization empowered to keep world order.

Fulbright, while polling heavily as returns mounted may not attain the majority of the total vote of all five candidates he needs to win the Senate nomination outright. Latest returns indicate an Aug. 8 run-off between two high candidates will be necessary.

If Johnston's lead stands up, there will be no need of a South Carolina run-off.

Dewey Victory Seen With N. Y., Bay State

By SANFORD E. STANTON

Special to the Boston Evening American

CHICAGO, July 26—With the national conventions over, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and his running mate, Gov. John W. Bricker, are definitely off in front at this time.

First, the Republicans are supremely confident; have an unusual amount of enthusiasm and firmly believe they are "riding a trend that will carry them right over the top in November."

In contrast, the Democrats left their convention irritable, disturbed, disunited and openly skeptical of their ability to arouse any particular enthusiasm for their ticket which, as they expressed it, "has nothing new at the top and nothing particularly interesting at the bottom."

BAY STATE AMONG THREE

At the moment, on the other hand, it would be something less than accurate to predict a landslide for the Republicans or disaster for the Democrats.

Such evidence as is now available, points to an unusually close contest. It is probably on the side of conservation today to say that Gov. Dewey will win the election in November if he carries two out of three key states in the East—any two. The states where the election probably lies are New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

Democratic and Republican leaders are in close agreement on the following division of states, as of the present time:

Democratic 16—133 electoral votes.

Republican 16—137 electoral votes.

Probable Democratic, 7 -77 electoral votes.

Probable Republican, 7 82 electoral votes

TEXAS SEEN PROBLEM

Key states are: Pennsylvania, 35 electoral votes; New York, 47 electoral votes.

Give the Republican ticket either Massachusetts or the admittedly border-line State of Missouri, placed for the moment in the Democratic column, and Dewey will win, regardless of whether he loses Pennsylvania or not.

In compiling a list of states that the Democrats claim and the Republican, for the present at least, concede, Texas was included. No one at the Democratic convention is prepared to say for sure Texas will not go through with its determination not to permit its electors to vote for President Roosevelt, regardless of the outcome of the November poll.

N. Y. Ballots Banned To Merchant Seamen

ALBANY, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Nathaniel L. Goldstein said that members of the merchant marine are not eligible to use absentee ballots under the state constitution because they are not part of the nation's military forces.

Goldstein's statement came as Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, GOP presidential nominee, issued a radio message urging relatives and friends of service men and women to inform them of "simple" requirements for voting in New York State.

Dewey, Bricker Map Strategy

ALBANY, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—The two top men on the Republican ticket meet today, for the first time since the party's national convention in Chicago, to map campaign strategy.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the party's presidential nominee, and Mrs. Dewey were to be hosts to Ohio's Gov. John W. Bricker, Dewey's running mate, and his wife, scheduled to arrive in Albany this morning.

SALTY IN NORMANDY . . .

By Burris Jenkins, Jr.

SALTY - PRIDE OF THE P.T. — SQUADRON, GUARDING NORMANDY COAST - MASTER OF THE "MISS KATE" AND BOSS OF THE TORPEDO FLEET -
STANDING HIS WATCH IN THE CHART ROOM -
SALTY WHEN "BACK OUT" WITH ANYBODY AND LIKE ALL GOOD SAILORS FALL ASLEEP IN 5 SECONDS ANY HOUR OF DAY OR NIGHT

THE youngest commander in this war is five months old.

His name is Salty.

Everybody in the PT squadron guarding Normandy admits that Salty is boss—even Commander Bulkeley himself.

Salty knows it most of all.

From that moment last February, when Torpedoman Kruger and Ship's Cook Austin first smuggled the pup aboard, Salty never missed a meal—whether slum or K-rations.

He knows when it's chow time and is always first in the galley. When he's thirsty he licks the pump and barks until he gets a drink. When he demands to go top-side—for he's house broken—Salty stands at the foot of a ladder until a crew member rends down for Salty to jump on his shoulders.

Whenever possible Salty prefers to hunt a fireplug on some other boat, much to the delight of the Miss Kate's crew.

At first they were worried about taking Salty on Liberty because of his tender years—or months. Their fears were groundless. Salty went along drink for drink, except that he refused beer, gin or scotch. It was bourbon or nothing for Salty.

At sea, Salty is most at home. Gunfire never bothers him unless it gets too loud. On D-Day a battleship let go a salvo alongside the Miss Kate and Salty dashed to the edge of the deck to give that battleship a going over it won't forget.

If he has a fault it's that he is not too discriminating in his friends and acquaintances. There came the night when the Miss Kate fished a German fighter pilot out of the water. Thawing out, the thin, blond exhausted Nazi in the warm crew's quarters with hot coffee and cigarettes, the men half expected Salty to react as watchdog over the prisoner. Instead Salty crawled up and went to sleep with him.

Maybe Salty got the idea from watching Chief Engineer Pop Nearwood of Kansas rub liniment on the enemy aviator's injured back.

You can take the word of Executive Officer Lew Pierce of Hartford, Ct., that if anything happens to Salty through enemy action some dark night off the Normandy coast, nothing will stop the crew of the Miss Kate from driving straight overland to Berlin.

Non-Political Candidate Roosevelt

By BENJAMIN De CASSERES

CANDIDATE Roosevelt's letter to National Democratic Chairman Hannegan announcing his candidacy for a fourth term, besides its insistence that he is running for President as commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy—an office for which Candidate Roosevelt is not running, as there is no such elective office—contains also another very, very curious statement, to wit:

"I would not run in the usual partisan political sense."

This is a slur on our democratic partisan-political way of doing things.

Besides, in what other way can Candidate Roosevelt run, seeing that he is NOT THE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE OF ALL THE AMERICAN PEOPLE, but the candidate of a political, a partisan party which is, mistakenly, called the "Democratic Party?" Mistakenly because he is really the candidate mainly of New Dealers, who are not only decidedly political but INTENSELY partisan.

He is also the candidate of the Communist Political Association, which under the name of the Communist Party of America was declared by Candidate Roosevelt's own Attorney-General to be a foreign-directed and revolutionary (hence treasonable) organization.

Not running in the "usual partisan political sense?" Why, then, does Candidate Roosevelt accept the indorsement of the partisan and political left-wing, Communistic-soaked American Labor Party, the aforesaid Earl Browder CPA and all the partisan alien-minded riff-raff in the country?

In fact, Candidate Roosevelt could not have been nominated for a fourth term except by partisans and politicians.

WHY, then, that curious phrase that "I WOULD NOT RUN IN THE USUAL PARTISAN POLITICAL SENSE"?

It cannot be that Candidate Roosevelt conceives himself, in his growing sense-of-power, to be another George Washington, who was twice the unanimous choice of the American people! There was, and can be, only ONE Washington in this country.

Candidate Roosevelt, however, was NOT the choice of all the people—not by many millions—in 1932, 1936, 1940, nor will he be in 1944.

He has been nominated and elected three times (nominated, in fact, four times) by partisan political conventions and he has been opposed in the traditional American manner, by partisan political movements.

Why, then, does Candidate Roosevelt seek to transcend the usual American way of "running"?

Is he in favor of abandoning our two-party system for the one-party system of Russia, Germany and Mussolini's Italy?

That is the only reluctant inference that an intelligent mind can draw from his statement that "I would not run in the usual partisan political sense."

Is he asking Governor Dewey to withdraw as a candidate in his favor, as Communist Earl Browder has withdrawn in favor of Candidate Roosevelt?

Or is he going to repudiate the nomination of the partisan political convention at Chicago and announce he is running for a fourth term as commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy and that, as there can be only one commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy, all other candidates for President are guilty of usurping his title?

EVERY PRESIDENT of the United States has run for office—except Washington—in "the usual partisan political sense."

Neither Jefferson nor Lincoln, neither Jackson nor Cleveland, neither Madison nor Theodore Roosevelt thought it un-American or beneath their dignity to run in the "usual partisan political sense."

Now, what meat hath this our goodly squire from Hyde Park fed on that he repudiates the fundamental political procedure of his country—political partisanship?

Above the two-party, or dozen-party, system of free democracies stands one-party dictatorship.

Of course, no one accuses Candidate Roosevelt of any such hidden motive—yet.

But isn't it curious, nevertheless, that Candidate Franklin Delano Roosevelt should assert that he "would not run in the usual partisan political sense"?

In what manner, then, is he running?

As commander-in-chief of all the people?

Is he as military head of the Army and Navy commanding us to vote for him?

If we are not to vote for or against Candidate Roosevelt in the "usual partisan political sense," how then are we going to vote for him?

If he isn't a candidate of a partisan political party, why was he nominated by one and why did he write a letter of acceptance to the chairman of a national committee of a partisan political party?

WASHINGTON, July 26—I have a wonderful story about the United States mint.

The lady who made 253,630,000 nickels last year can never find one when she wants to make a telephone call!

And do you know how I got this story? Simply because I mistook some other lady for Nellie Tayloe Ross, the mint's director!

The weather was very drunk in Chicago last week and visibility was reeling when I walked in on the Democratic National Convention. A woman was making a long speech from the platform and Louis Bromfield, the author, informed me it was Mrs. Ross.

It developed that Mr. Bromfield had been out in the weather, too, but I did not know it until after I had written a piece about Mrs. Ross and her speech.

Today Mrs. Ross phoned and invited me to visit her.

"Delighted!" I said. "But would you mind if my bodyguards went over first and frisked you for weapons?"

"That will not be necessary," said Mrs. Ross. "I am unarmed."

I edged cautiously into her spacious quarters opposite the Treasury Building, but she allayed my fears.

"I am not incensed," she said. "I am just curious whom you mistook me for. I did not make any speech at the convention."

"I am dreadfully sorry about that, Mrs. Ross," I said. "And I don't know whom I mistook for you. It will probably remain a baffling mystery—curse that Bromfield!"

"Well, as long as you don't curse him in this office," said Mrs. Ross. "But what I really wanted to see you about is this: Would you like to know how many finished coins the mint turned out in the 1944 fiscal year ended June 30?"

"No—I mean yes!" I said. "How many?"

"We put out 2,578,640,270 pieces of all denominations."

Mrs. Ross, who was America's first woman governor, having taken the job in Wyoming from 1925 to 1927, leaned back in her chair and continued:

"We put out 12,354 tons of finished coins. This means that it would take 4118 three-ton trucks to carry them away.

"It means 35 tons a day on the basis of 360 days."

"That is a lot of truck—I mean tonnage," I said. "I trust you had help driving all those trucks and didn't have to do it yourself."

"I had assistance," said Mrs. Ross. "Now, I would like you to know that a few years ago 325 million pieces would have been a lot of coins for the mint to issue. Well, this fiscal year we issued more than three billion."

Mrs. Ross informed me that more than 500 millions of these coins went to foreign countries.

"Many people," she said, "do not know that we make coins for other countries. We have been doing it since 1874—but business has gone up terrifically.

"In many countries the mints have been destroyed. Other countries have given us their business anyway. We make coins for most of the South American countries, also the Netherlands and Australia. They either supply the metal direct, or pay for it in some way, and we deliver the finished coins.

"There is a staggering need for coins all over the world. We need an awful lot here at home.

"Our domestic coinage last year was: 1,918,653,670 pennies; 253,610,000 nickels; 244,422,000 dimes; 111,250,800 quarters and 50,685,800 half dollars."

"That is quite a lot of loose change," I said. "I suppose you always have enough for a phone call?"

"That's the worst of it," she said. "I never can find a nickel when I want it."

Mrs. Ross said the mint also makes all the medals for the Navy, Coast Guard and Marines. The Army lets out some of its work to private contractors. The Purple Heart, for instance was designed and executed by John Sinnock, the mint's chief engraver at Philadelphia.

Congressional Medals and all other medals authorized by Congress, such as the Lindbergh Medal, etc., are made by the mint.

"Furthermore," said Mrs. Ross, "all the gold and silver stored by the government is owned by the mint. I am very opulent."

"You mean like the stuff at Fort Knox?" I said.

Mrs. Ross laughed.

"It is funny about Fort Knox," she said. "Everybody seems to think all our precious metal is there. It is not. We have big stores in Denver, San Francisco, and West Point, N. Y. Fort Knox is just a sort of symbol."

The mint, incidentally, has stopped making those confounded white pennies, and is back to copper. White pennies were made from the same sort of stuff as a galvanized iron roof—which I suspected all along.

Want to know what they are making many of the pennies from now? Expended shell cases!

They're melting them up, but they have to be sweetened with fresh copper. A cent contains 95 per cent copper and 5 per cent zinc. Shell casing is 70 per cent copper, 5 per cent zinc.

Aren't you glad now I mistook that dame for Nellie Tayloe Ross?

WHAT OUR FEMININE friends describe as "eligible bachelors" are those between the ages of 20 and 34. Before the war there were three such bachelors to every two single women in the same age group. In those days a young woman who couldn't get a husband had only herself to blame. Either she was too particular or did not have a satisfactory husband hunting technique. Now it is different. Today there are only about one million seven hundred thousand bachelors in the 20-34 age group in civilian life in the United States, as compared to over four million single women in the same age group. The spinsters now outnumber the bachelors about two and a half to one! But there, little girl, don't cry; they are only civilian bachelors. Wait until the fighting men come home and the husband hunting will be as good as ever.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: "Under the new system men could be in action six or eight months after being drafted," states a contemporary discussing the draft situation. In World War One some fellows were in action in France six weeks after they had been drafted . . . The OPA seems to be paving the way for the sale of used Jeeps to the public. If and when the Jeeps are sold to citizens the price for one of these machines will be $750.

ASKING: Queries from Clients: Q—Why do people persist in referring to representatives as "congressmen?" Senators are congressmen, too. A—I don't know why people persist in doing what you call attention to. However, don't let it get you down. You are quite right, of course, about senators being congressmen. Q — My grandfather, who is seventy-nine, is one of the best automobile drivers in Chicago. He drives to work through traffic daily and never had an accident. What do you think of that? A—Your grandpappy is quite a fellow. Still, Barnet Steinfeld of Brooklyn at the age of eighty-two, is still holding his own as an auto driver in one of the toughest towns to drive a car in the United States. Los Angeles is the most difficult town for auto driving, Brooklyn is second in this respect and Boston third. New York (Manhattan) and Chicago are easy towns for autoists.

ASIDES: Am asked how wide the English Channel is. This query comes from Guadalcanal. The English Channel is 140 miles wide at its widest point, south of Sidmouth. It is 21 miles wide at its narrowest point, east of Dover . . . How much did you pay for your bed? Don't answer me; it is none of my business. But isn't it astonishing how little attention some people will pay to the quality of their beds, in which they spend one-third of their lives? It is also surprising that so many hotels have such poor beds. More of this subject anon.

HOLLYWOOD, July 26—One-quarter million dollars ($250,000 in round figures) is the price tag being dangled before Brian Donlevy's eyes if he will go to Mexico City to make a picture with Esther Fernandez. That's good old American money, too—not Mexican pesos. Reckon it's the biggest offer ever made an actor for a single picture.

Joan Blondell

Connie Bennett's famous deal with Warners years ago called for a couple movies at $300,000.

Paramount has nothing ready for Brian until November, which is another reason that makes me think he'll probably accept the bid.

LIFE HAS taken on added zest for Joan Blondell, who is as happy as a lark these days and no longer moody as she was for so many months. Now she has settled her domestic problems her career is going along swimmingly. Her next at 20th is in "Bon Voyage" in a role of the same type as "Aunt Sissy" in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," but not a repeat. She is a dizzy secretary with a "problem mother."

THE REASON Gary Cooper turned down "Jubal Troop" and refused to make it for Sam Wood is reliably said to be because there are two ardent love scenes with a married woman in it. Cary Grant also rejected it because he was afraid of the very same scenes, which, however, passed the Hays office. Sam is trying to borrow Humphrey Bogart.

IT'S ALWAYS difficult for me to realize that Ann Gillis is grown up, much more that she is harboring heartbreak and anxiety. Ann, who is crowding her 18th birthday, already knows the meaning of "the show must go on." The very day she reported for work in "Abbott And Costello In Society" the Red Cross notified her her fiance, Lt. David Thompson, was missing on a combat flight over Yugoslavia. As she had kept the secret of her engagement, so she also kept the cruel news to herself. But now that the Red Cross has notified her that Lt. Thompson is alive and well, although a German prisoner, she wants the world to know she is engaged.

Broadway . . . . By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, July 26—Seldom if ever has Broadway had a show girl more colorful than Lois Andrews, the former Mrs. Georgie Jessel. Now she is a motion picture actress, but the celluloid mill hasn't ground her into any less of a "character." Here she gives the lowdown on a few of the celebrated gentlemen who have sat on her doorstep.—D. K.

LOIS ANDREWS SAYS:

I have had a lot of famous dates that won't make history. My gi-ham-orous career started in 1939, and my first date was with:

DENNIS O'KEEFE. He has his serious moments. As to how he is on a date, I can't give you very much dirt. He's always charming and loads of fun. But in my career (short as it has been) he has been my "big brother."

Lois Andrews

GEORGE RAFT. He's suave and sophisticated. Enjoys dancing, but doesn't like night clubs. Probably because he doesn't drink. Nothing particularly exciting happened with him.

ARTIE SHAW is a boy of many moods and if you catch him in a good one you can have a lot of fun with him. His companionship at times is as heavy as Wagner then completely switches and becomes as light as Beethoven. Artie gives away too much to his moods. He found out my age and suddenly I didn't see him any more! I carried a torch for a long time . . . well, at least a week.

HOWARD HUGHES is a very nice, quiet date. In fact, he doesn't say anything! My first and only date with him was on a snowy night. We went to a night club. Mr. Hughes sat with his overcoat on for fear of catching cold. Then after an entertaining evening we went out into the frostbitten air and as the doorman hailed a taxi, Mr. Hughes suggested that we go swimming. Who was it said "It takes all kinds"?

BURGESS MEREDITH is a fascinating date. He's far from being suave or sophisticated. And one of the nicest things about him is that you're not conscious of the fact that he's an actor when you are with him. Buzz is a swell playmate; in fact, I think that's a better description for him than calling him a date. One can become bored with a date . . .

TONY MARTIN is a charming date. Especially if he's working. Then you can sit at a table while his show is on and his songs sound as if they were just being sung to you. This, I might add, is a thrilling feeling. He's awfully nice to look at. But darn it, he doesn't sing all the time.

HOLLYWOOD, July 26—Joan Fontaine tells friends she would like to do "Peter Pan" on Broadway, with Olivia de Havilland as Wendy, and Basil Rathbone as Capt. Hooke . . . Metro is trying to get Tallulah Bankhead to play the Lynn Fontanne role in the film version of "The Pirate" . . . Ann Miller and Fred de Cordova are vooming . . . Claudette Colbert is now the favorite to play the Louella Parsons role in "The Gay Illiterate" . . . Tyrone Power has transferred to the Marine Transport Command . . . Ava Gardner and Paul Brooks have found each other . . . John Swope flew in from Thunderbird Field, Ariz., where he is a civilian flight instructor, to spend an anniversary with Dorothy McGuire . . . Ida Lupino, in her next picture, "Pillar to Post," plays an auto supply saleswoman looking for a soldier husband . . . Peggy Fears is being paged to be the attraction at Ciro's Mexico City.

* * *

BETTE DAVIS would like Warners to do the crook melodrama "Kick In," and she wants Fred MacMurray for her leading man . . . Faye Emerson and Charles Russell are vooming . . . Jack Wagner and John Steinbeck have written another story together. It is called "Mejicano" and will be offered to the movies soon . . . Lynn Bari's next picture will be "Bon Voyage" . . . Peggy Ryan, who doesn't drink, won a bottle of Scotch at the Mocambo sweepstakes and traded it in for some cokes . . . June Haver, who met him at the Hollywood Canteen, and Ray McDonald of "Winged Victory" are now for each other.

* * *

GEORGE BRENT and Dorothy Dare are for each other . . . Vincent Price is being considered for the title role in "Jean Valjean." Laird Cregar is set for Javert . . . William Eythe is being fitted for white tights for a "glamour" role in "Czarina." Eythe also will wear a ruffled night gown for a scene in this picture.

REFLECTIONS: Unimpeachable is the spaghetti at Walter Seaver's Lenox, where the food is always wonderful but where one would least expect a featuring of a staple like spaghet' . . . The Statler's ice cream pie remains this column's favorite dessert, although the pastry chef at Dinty Moore's does tricks with his cream (non-iced) pies that are arresting . . . Don Arden's sublime taste in costuming sets apart the Latin Quarter shows. The costuming originally was an embellishment to Arden's dance routines. Now the dance routines, good as they are, seem secondary . . . Either actors are hard to get or John Huntington, manager of the Cambridge Summer Theatre, is an actor in his heart . . . Jawn stepped into The William Marshall role (a meanie) in the Lillian Hellman play, "The Little Foxes." He has acted before (in "Ceiling Zero" and "Parnell") . . . It seems too bad that the Cape Playhouse at Dennis could not have been open for business this summer in the midst of the Cape's biggest boom-year.

"He held my hand for quite a while last night, too, but I finally got it loose and smacked him!"

Vegetable Treats

By MARTHA LEE

Among the vegetables featured in the market today are crimson beets, orange carrots and green snap beans. And this is the season of the year to take advantage of the fine quality and low prices on native vegetables for both table use and canning.

Beets served spiced, or hot, Harvard style, have a place of importance with fish on any menu. Young, fresh, tender carrots, cooked whole, provide plenty of vitamin A.

HARVARD BEETS

1-3 cup sugar — ½ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. cornstarch
¼ cup vinegar
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 tsp. minced onion
3 cups hot diced, cooked beets

Blend sugar, salt, and cornstarch in top of double boiler; add vinegar, stir until mixed, and cook over boiling water until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Add butter, onion, and beets, and let heat over boiling water for about 20 minutes.

SPICED BEET RELISH

1 tbsp. mixed whole spices
1 cup water — 1 cup vinegar
½ cup sugar
1 bunch small beets
1 cup sweet pickle relish

For mixed whole spices, use allspice, stick cinnamon, cloves and mustard seeds; tie in cheesecloth bag and drop into water-vinegar-sugar mixture. Wash beets and cut off stems to within 1 inch of the bulb; add to the spice mixture and cook until tender, adding water if liquid cooks away. Drain, remove skins; chill and chop fine. Makes 4 cups relish.

GLAZED CARROTS

Cut off tops of 2 pounds of carrots, wash, scrape, and cut in slices. Young carrots may be left whole. Cook with dash each of salt and sugar in small amount of water in tightly covered utensil 15 to 25 minutes until tender. Drain, return to kettle, add 2 tablespoons butter and 2 tablespoons sugar, and stir constantly over low heat 2 or 3 minutes, until sugar melts. Makes 6 servings.

SWEET CORN

Sweet corn is arriving in our local markets in such volume that it may be classed now among the plentifuls. As to preparing it, many of us agree that it is most flavorous when served on-the-cob. To serve tender ears of corn, boil in salted water. Don't boil rapidly; don't use a large quantity of water; cook only a few minutes.

When the corn is done, cut the kernels from the cob, if you like to eat it this way, add seasoning—and some cream, if desired. If you are serving it on-the-cob, it will look more attractive and stay hot longer if you place it on the table covered with a napkin, as you would hot rolls.

STRING BEANS WITH MUSTARD SAUCE

1½ lbs. string beans, cut lengthwise
¼ cup minced onion
1 tbsp. prepared mustard
2½ tbs. flour
1 tsp. salt
1 egg yolk beaten
1 tbsp. lemon juice

Cook beans until tender with onion. Meanwhile, combine mustard, flour, and salt in double boiler. Combine beaten egg yolk and milk, and add gradually, while stirring. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until thickened; then add lemon juice, and pour over drained beans. Makes 6 servings.

STRING BEANS WITH GARDEN HERBS

2 lbs. string beans, cut in 1-inch pieces
6 tbsp. butter or margarine
½ tsp. chopped fresh thyme
2 tbsp. chopped chives

Beauty

Flawless Make-Up Easy to Attain

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

SHE IS BLONDE, she is beautiful, and she fairly stopped traffic in a downtown store . . . as perched on the counter garbed in sky-blue shorts . . . she gazed into space . . . a glamorous creature to behold for all who feasted covetous eyes on her.

Her beauty was something out of this world . . . and she had a complexion to match. It was luminous and dewy . . . it was translucently clear and vibrant . . . it was a sparkling bit of all right, believe me. Envious gals crowded about her . . . beaming on her . . . as she sat in silence . . . illustrative of a make-up that tops any artist's dream of perfection.

It's my business to look and look hard. This I did. It wasn't a nude facial beauty . . . but a loveliness achieved with an overtone make-up . . . so deftly and naturally applied that her face was like chiseled marble . . . perfect in line and coloring detail.

A human illustration of what the proper make-up can do for a gal . . . this blonde model . . . so favored by the gods with a face and figure to write home about . . . was proof enough that proper foundation enhances facial loveliness . . . and that no matter how stunning the features . . . they need professionalism way and beyond just a dab of powder and a touch of lip rouge.

SIX GRAND SHADES

This overtone instant beautifier has miracle-like results . . . a smooth, satiny, meticulous kind of beauty that lasts for hours and needs no touching up. It gives dramatic perfection to the face and neck . . . it imparts a healthy glow . . . it creates a flawless well-groomed appearance of the skin . . . it even covers up minor blemishes.

You can choose your "instant beauty" from six grand shades depending upon the depth of color you like to bring to your complexion.

For the name of this make-up and where to see the model, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MODELS BECOME TOP-FLIGHT COVER GIRLS because they know the glamorous and proper use of make-up . . . because they resort to perfectly blended foundations . . . to give their complexions that flawless, instant beauty that comes from an overtone artistry of lasting effect. Cover Girl Anita Colby is one of the nation's loveliest.

Fashion

YOU CAN PLAY a smart game of badminton in this smart cotton playsuit . . . with brief red and white striped top that ties with a shorestring lacing and has short sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. A short, short white skirt derives action fit . . . and a dash of color from the striped panel at the front. RKO Star Simone Simon pertly wears the playsuit.—R. M.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N. C., Tuesday — It was so easy to fall into the routine at home again that I hated the thought of leaving for New York city on Monday, but I promised long ago to go down to North Carolina for two days with the missionary conference of the Methodist Church.

Lake Junaluska, where the meeting is being held, is a lovely place. I have been quite busy while here. One thing I regretted not being able to do. I was asked to visit Black Mountain College. I have long been interested in this college and would have liked very much to see it, but I wanted to get home, for it is only during the summer months that I can really have any consecutive time at Hyde Park.

* * *

I THINK I forgot to mention to you a book which I read not long ago by Markoosha Fischer, called "My Lives in Russia." It is an honest book, and depicts the changes which came about in Russia as they affected different parts of the population.

Mrs. Fischer was, of course, not much affected by things done to groups of people with whom she had little personal contact before. But when the changes touched her own group she began to see them, as we all do, through her own personal feelings.

I doubt if any of us can get away from this kind of reaction. Being objective is a matter of long training, and I am not sure that even scientists always attain it.

* * *

ON THE TRAIN, I read a little book written rather like a series of letters, called "Dear Shut-In." It is addressed to the people who have to bear long illnesses or long periods of physical handicap. The author, Roscoe Gilmore Stott, quite evidently has an understanding of the problem that faces invalids. His own semi-invalid childhood and his fight against partial blindness give him keen sympathy, but I am not sure whether he has found the best way to teach his own philosophy, which has evidently been a courageous and successful one.

All Quincy school buildings were under police guard today as officials sought to end the activities of a gang of young vandals who smashed almost 60 window panes in the Wollaston and North Quincy High Schools.

New Baby Gift

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN, I am expecting to receive a birth announcement from a not-very-close friend. Is it necessary that I send the baby a present at once, or shall I wait and bring my present when I go to see them in about a month after the baby's birth? A. N.

Either time you wish is proper . . . but it does seem more "timely" to send the gift shortly after the baby's birth.

Objects to Her Dates

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm 17 years old and pal around with my cousin and one other girl. Naturally we like to go around with boys, and the three boys we go with belong to a group of other young boys. Last night we were talking to some of these boys, and my father came along and pulled me away and made me go home with him. I was so humiliated. And now he's making up stories about me, and accusing me of things I wouldn't even think of doing.

I am employed in a war factory, and think I should have some time for dates. Don't you think so? My father says he's going to give me work to do at home so that I wouldn't have any time to go out at all. I'm on the verge of leaving home, but I won't do anything until I hear from you. C. R.

At 17 years of age, please don't leave home at such a time as this, though I'll admit you have plenty of provocation. Try and reason with your father, or get your mother or someone, to talk sensibly to him. Certainly a girl working in a war plant needs some relaxation.

Fall Wedding Gowns

By BETTINA BEDWELL

EXPECTING a vast number of early fall weddings, the designers of bridal gowns have readied dresses for all kinds of ceremonies, but they are all going to have a dream girl look to them.

One such gown, for the girl who gets married in a chapel, is sketched. This was designed by Wilma Allen, one of the best known designers of bridal gowns. It is made of floating, frost-white marquisette. The closely-fitted basque waist is trimmed with ruffles of the marquisette, which extend down the full length of the skirt to make it very, very bouffant.

A headdress made of ruffled marquisette set with small flowers holds the long tulle veil.

THE COUNTRY and seaside fairs are in rare summer form and tomorrow's offering is the annual St. John's Church Fair at Beverly Farms, for many years a "must" for all good North Shore summer colonists. Gather Home Crops in Time For Best Quality and Yield

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head, Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser demonstration garden on Boston Common.

Now is the time when knowing just when to pick crops so as to get the best quality and the largest yield is knowledge of real value to the Victory Gardener.

A home garden must be managed different from a commercial garden so far as harvesting goes. To get the full benefit of the crop, do not make the mistake of letting your plants get tough before you use them. The following points may help in harvesting:

BEANS—Start picking when pods are 5-6 inches long, and before the seed gets too large. Varieties vary so you will have to experiment a little.

BEETS—For table or canning, early beets should be used before they get too woody. They are best when about 2 inches across the top.

CARROTS—Can be used as you thin and are excellent quality when small. Roots 1-1½ inches in diameter are excellent.

CORN—Should be used as soon as the ear is filled out. Try by pulling back the husk and testing the kernel. If milk oozes out it is ready. Pick corn just before eating for best quality.

CUCUMBERS—Should be harvested as soon as they are large enough for slicing. Do not let them develop into the seed stage. Handle vines carefully when picking.

ONIONS—Use early for green onions and allow the rest to mature.

SQUASH—Summer squash should be used before it gets tough. You should be able to puncture skin with the fingernail.

TOMATOES—Best to leave fruit on plant until red unless they crack badly. The use of mulch after August 1 seems to help prevent cracking to some extent.

The best vegetables should be used for canning, and for some crops our gardeners should be getting ready to can. Do not plan to use leftover crops for canning if you want good quality. Unless you put fancy products into the jars you will be disappointed.

Much trouble is caused by faulty pressure gauges. It will pay to have your gauge tested by your home demonstration agent or at your canning clinics. Don't take chances and regret it later.

Police Free Suspect In Martin Slaying

Investigation into the gangland slaying of Yapran Alajajian, better known as Pepper Martin, former boxer, ex-convict and gambler, entered its second week today as police reported that a 32-year-old Dorchester man, whom they held for questioning, had been released.

The Dorchester man was picked up primarily, detectives said, because of his acquaintance with Jack McCarthy, Roxbury heavyweight boxer, who is being held as an accessory after the murder.

2 N. Y. Nightclubs Face Tax Auction

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—La Vie Parisienne and The Copacabana, two of New York's most popular night clubs, will be sold at public auction Monday unless they pay taxes claimed by the city or post bond for a year, City Tax Collector William Reid says.

Reid added yesterday that a sale date for the Stork Club, from which the city claims $181,029 in back sales, business taxes and penalties, would await disposition of a Supreme Coumrt order obtained by the club.

Tax claims against La Vie Parisienne totaled $13,700 and against the Copacabana, $37,370.

Loew's Bills Film Fantasy

Columbia's "Once Upon a Time," starring Cary Grant and Janet Blair in a story about a dancing caterpillar, is due to move into Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters tomorrow.

Originally a radio play, "My Friend Curly," by Norman Corwin, "Once Upon a Time" has been adapted for the screen by Irving Fineman. Curly, the caterpillar of the story, is the pal of 9-year-old Pinky, and it dances when Pinky plays "That's My Baby" on his mouth-organ.

When a flop Broadway producer learns of this phenomenon, he sees a chance to gain its possession and exploit it sufficiently so that he can salvage his theater from the bankers. It is given nationwide prominence when a famous commentator mentions it on his radio program.

A deluge of offers to exploit the talented insect follows.

Ted Donaldson plays the boy owner of the fabulous caterpillar. Importantly featured are James Gleason, William Demarest and Howard Freeman.

Ted Collins Reveals Hub Football Plans

By JACK CONWAY

TED COLLINS, owner of the Boston Yanks in the National Football League, met me in the lobby of the Lake Placid Club at Lake Placid, N. Y. He had just come from Mirror Lake where he had caught some bass, trout and pickerel. He looked the picture of health, and from his enthusiasm it was easy to see how Boston will eventually have a professional football club of which it will be proud.

Bert Bertelli

Collins looked at some of the guests in evening clothes preparing to attend a concert and grinned.

"I have been so busy fishing all day that I haven't had time to dress yet," he said with a chuckle. "You know I am something of a fishing champion. I have won cups in competition in Florida and at Lake Placid."

I told Collins I was anxious to find out something about his plans for a football team in Boston this coming fall.

"We may not win a single game," replied Collins frankly, "but we shall put a team on the field which will be loaded with color and which will give Boston and New England fans a real show.

"With the numerous war difficulties, I shall be obliged to spend more money on my club this year than in the postwar period when we shall get better results. I am determined to give Boston a winning club, and I shall spend what money is necessary to accomplish this result.

"You may say this will be Boston's last chance to have a professional football team. This is IT. If I do not succeed, no other promoter will receive an opportunity to try.

"There will be only one more National League franchise given out. I was amazed at the recent National League meeting to see the many offers as high as $250,000 for a National League franchise.

"There will not be any franchise given to the Coast. It is likely the Coast will have two teams in a league which will compare with the International League in baseball. There has been talk of another major league, but I do not see how it could succeed. It would not have the necessary playing fields, while it could not match stars with our league. It might snare a few individual stars, but this would develop into merely a Red Grange tour."

* * *

Tells of Start

I ASKED Collins, who answers questions readily and with complete honesty, how he first became interested in football.

"Lt. Com. Jimmy Crowley and myself are about the same age. I am 42 and consider myself as Jimmy did about football. When he was at Fordham, I was as hot a Fordham fan as there was in the country. I never missed one of their games, and I tried to help Crowley when I could.

"Jimmy was my football hero, and he is now the head coach of my club. Herb Kopf will carry on the duties of Superintendent of Athletics, and will remain on our coaching staff in the postwar period. I think we shall have the best coaches in football.

"I think Herb will place a colorful team in the field this year.

"I acquired the franchise of the Long Island Indians. This club has succeeded so well that the people of Long Island are going to build it a stadium which will seat 25,000 persons.

"The Indians will be a good club for us to have. We can prepare our youngsters there for the big show much as the ball clubs use farm teams."

* * *

Bertelli to Be Ace

COLLINS' EYES sparkled, while he showed great enthusiasm as he discussed Lt. Angelo Bertelli of the Marine Corps, former Notre Dame quarterback, who he claimed in the draft.

"Bertelli will be our ace," said Collins. "We shall build our club around him. One must have a passer to succeed in professional football. Unto remains the Redskins' failed when they were in Boston because they didn't have a passer.

"Bertelli is cool under fire, while he is a deadly passer. He will go beyond his best college efforts in professional football. He will become one of the game's greatest passers.

"I have often traveled 1000 miles to see Sammy Baugh throw a forward pass. Sammy is perfection in this line, but Bertelli will be equally as great."

I asked Ted who were his sports heroes.

"I have three," he answered without hesitation. "Lt. Com. Jimmy Crowley, Sammy Baugh and Joe Cronin. I wish Joe Cronin were 10 years younger and a football player. He could have a job for life."

Collins asserted that all of the 30 players he claimed in the draft are still in service.

* * *

Bullish on Peace

"WE SHALL have to wait until Uncle Sam gives them their discharges," said Collins. "I am bullish on the postwar era. Football will then resume on a normal plane and I shall be able to build faster toward a winner.

"This fall we shall have George Cafego, former Tennessee star, Teddy Williams, who used to play for Boston College and Davy Strickler, former Tennessee end. Eagle fullback, on the job. We shall have other first-class players, too."

It was the same kind of enthusiasm that enabled Collins to manage Kate Smith, famous radio singer, into stardom. He is a showman and has the personality that attracts people to him.

"Jim Mara of the Giants has been helpful to me," said Collins. "He may get me a few players. Most clubs refuse to give up a player.

"The Yanks will train at Lake Placid. Up here 2000 feet above sea level I know my club will be able to get into perfect condition. I can do some fishing between practice sessions and calling for Kate Smith's radio engagements. Kate Smith has traveled 121,000 miles to give special shows at Army, Navy and Air Corps camps."

TED COLLINS, OWNER OF BOSTON YANKEE PRO FOOTBALL TEAM, relaxes at Mirror Lake, Lake Placid region, N. Y., where he's looking for a whopper.

Braves Shift Policy As Fan Support Fails

By BILL GRIMES

Realizing that mid-week double-headers are not paying attractions, the directors of the Braves requested permission from Pres. Ford Frick of the National League to postpone the War Relief Society originally scheduled for this afternoon to Sunday, September 24, when the Cincinnati Reds will make their final appearance of the season at the Allston Wigwam.

The Braves do not draw more than 3000 or 3500 for mid-week twin bills. The directors checked carefully on all attendance figures and agreed if the Braves were going to do anything worthwhile for the War Relief Society, the least they should do was to contribute the receipts of a Sunday doubleheader.

"The National and American League clubs that play under the lights," declared Treasurer Joe Maney of the Braves, "play night games for the War Relief Society and their contributions have been well up in the five figures.

"As you know we haven't any lights, and as you also know, we do not draw well for week day double-headers. Just as soon as we were notified by President Ford frick that he had selected July 26 (today) as the day for the Braves and the Cincinnati Reds to play for that worthy charity, Bob Quinn, Lou Perini, Guido Ruga and I began to watch the attendance figures. It didn't take us long to realize that if the Braves staged their charity game on any day but Sunday our contribution would be a disgrace to the city and New England.

"We figure that a double-header with the Cincinnati Reds on a Sunday in September will draw, weather permitting, at least 15,000. Right now Johnny Quinn is arranging a program for the War Relief Society game, which will be a real box office attraction. Naturally it will feature the military and if it is our good fortune to have the European trouble over by that time we will stage a real show on Sept. 24 and the attractions should exceed more than 20,000 to Braves Field, which would top any week day charity game by 15,000."

The Braves couldn't get rolling again yesterday and dropped a 6 to 2 decision to the Cincinnati Reds. Arnold Carter let the Braves down with nine hits but the Reds jumped on Ben Cardoni and Stan Klopp for eleven "blows" including two home runs, one triple and four two baggers.

Ira Hutchinson and Red Barrett are Bob Coleman's selections for the pitching assignments for this afternoon. Mgr. Bill McKechnie will toss his ace hurler Johnny Wyrostek, one of the Braves in the opening game and then will use either Harry Gumbert or Ed Heusser in the nightcap.

Service Men in Dilboy Bouts

Amateur boxing teams from Quonset Point, R. I., Naval Base, Fort Devens, and the Sudan A. C., Dorchester, will be battling it out with a classy field of independent fighters for top honors tonight at Dilboy Field, Somerville, when the George Dilboy Post, V. F. W., stages the third in its series of floodlight program.

In the lengthy entry list will be 10 winners of former Dilboy shows as well as a pair of New England champions, Jambalaya Knight Mario Zullo, Chelsea, and light-heavyweight Little Chief Haynes, Quonset.

Zullo will be running into stiff competition with Johnnie Deezil, South End fighter who decisioned the latter in his last start, and Benny Wilters and Ed Dobbins of the Sudan A. C. in the running.

Navy Park Leaders To Play Cellar Boys

Only one game scheduled for the Park League tonight and that lone contest takes place at Lee Park, South Boston where the league leading Navy Yard meets last place West Roxbury A. A.

The Navy is coasting alone with a comfortable lead and a victory tonight will be just another triumph but it's a different story for West Roxbury.

The West Roxbury team has to win tonight if it wants to get into the playoffs which will be starting soon.

The cellar dwell[illegible] have been no ball of fire la[illegible] but every once in a while wi[illegible] victory is [illegible] badly they c[illegible] through. L[illegible]ssier, the te[illegible]n's outstand[illegible] player, will undoubtedly start while Frank Spano will send Jim Daly to the Navy Yard hill.

Tessier is the all around player who bats for better than .600, has won practically every game for his team, plays equally well in the infield or outfield and if he has a good night he may send the club on its needed spurt.

Manager John Hadley has strengthened further the club by the acquisition of Eddie Barry, better known in this section as a hockey player, but a great natural hitter. If Terrier and Barry are right, he Navy Yard had better watch out.

Plan Expansion Of Shibe Park

PHILADELPHIA, July 26 (AP)—A $1,000,000 postwar improvement and expansion plan for Shibe Park is contemplated by Connie Mack and the Philadelphia Athletics, the Philadelphia Record said in a copyrighted story today.

The plan, which is intended to make Shibe one of the nation's most modern big league parks, calls for an additional 3000 seats along the first and third base lines. This would boost the total seating capacity to 29,963.

Rebuilding the fronts of the two grandstands and replacement of two stairways with ramps also will provide additional space for more seats, and home and visiting team clubhouses will be moved to a new section of the park.

PLAN MODERN PRESS BOX

The program also calls for a new, larger and more completely equipped press box and a modern restaurant to be built by Park Concessions, Inc., a subsidiary of the A's. The present commissary will be moved to an area not now occupied.

"My father and I have had this under consideration for a long time," Roy Mack said. "We hope to get it started as soon as the war is over.

"No improvements are scheduled for the bleachers or the upper seats in left field at this time. Nor will the Shibe Park tower office come down. That's my father's landmark."

PLAN FOR PHILLIES

However, the A's plan to modernize their offices and build similar ones for the Phillies, their tenants.

Roy Mack recently inspected Wrigley Field in Chicago and Briggs Stadium in Detroit to get ideas for improvements to be incorporated in Shibe Park's postwar set-up. Both were built after Shibe Park was erected at a cost of $1,500,000 in 1909.

Red Sox Halt Surge Of Speedy Tigers

By Associated Press

Boston's Red Sox halted Detroit's surge toward the American League's first division yesterday with a 7-3 decision in the opener of a four-game series after the Tigers had taken six of their first eight tilts with eastern rivals.

Yang Terry weakened in the seventh after holding the Tigers to three hits in the first six frames but Manager Joe Cronin called in his ace, Tex Hughson, to quell the rebellion. It was the fourth relief appearance for the 15-game winner who snuffed out Detroit's rally.

A four-run fifth inning won for the Sox as they chased starter Rufe Gentry to an early shower and his 11th loss.

Bill Dietrich captured his 11th decision for the Chicago White Sox but needed relief help from Jake Wade to knock off Washington, 9-6. Ralph Hodgin led the 12-hit attack on loser Mickey Haefner and Al Carrasquel with a triple and single, driving in three runs to run his streak to 17 hits in his last 27 at bats.

Pittsburgh bounced back from Monday's drubbing in Brooklyn to stage a nine-run inning of their own in walloping New York, 15-0. The Pirates splurged for nine scores in the second and blasted starter Bob Barthelson and Frank Seward for 20 safeties while Max Butcher rationed six New York blows in hanging up his fifth straight win.

Chicago slugged Brooklyn, 14-6, banging out 18 hits off Tom Warren, Ralph Branca, Charley Fuchs and Hal Gregg. Ival Goodman, subbing for the injured Andy Pafko in center, collected three singles and a double, driving in three runs to hand Warren his second straight loss. Hank Wyse, who replaced Red Lynn in the fourth, was the winner.

Rookie Carnie Carter belted a home run and a single while scattering nine Boston hits to give Cincinnati a 6-2 triumph.

INDIANS PUT ON STEAM

Cleveland nursed a budding pennant boom today as the tribe celebrated its eighth win in nine starts against eastern opposition and a 10-0 landslide over the New York Yankees.

Lou Boudreau's club, always touted as "the best on paper" but a consistent disappointment to its followers, quit the cellar less than a month ago and moved into fourth place by easy stages.

Although still in fourth spot, Cleveland trailed second place New York by a single game and the leading St. Louis Brownies by 4½.

As the Cleveland-New York series went into its second stage tonight the big league calendar called for the final seven games of 16 scheduled for war relief. In addition to the all-star game in Pittsburgh that sent $106,275 into the service bat and ball fund, nine special games upped the total to $304,775.

St. Louis, Cleveland and Chicago in the American and all the eastern clubs in the National give over today's receipts to the war fund in an effort to hit the $500,000 goal. All war fund games, except the Cincinnati at Boston doubleheader, will be played tonight. Every team will have given over one home date to the cause.

Steve Gromek, a strong-armed chucker for Baltimore last year, shut out the Yanks for Cleveland, sprinkling six blows, while Ken Keltner's grand slam homer in the first frame doomed Hank Borowy.

BROWNS PULL AWAY

Bob Muncrief upped the Browns' margin on the Yanks to 3½ games by turning back Philadelphia, 9-1, for his 10th victory. Lum Harris was the main victim as St. Louis cuffed three A's hurlers for 16 safeties before 3462 fans, the smallest night game crowd of the major league season.

Braves Notes

After grounding out in the third, "Chuck" Workman started out to right field . . . Barring accidents, Ray Mueller will catch his 151st and 152d straight games this afternoon.

Tommy Holmes didn't look too good on Gee Gee Walker's fly, which went for a double, in the 4th but no damage followed, for "Gee Gee" got a yen to steal third and was out . . . Phil Masi pepped up the Braves' infield . . . And, moreover, he is a far better first baseman than many Braves who have attempted to play that position . . . Workman made a fine play on Ray Mueller's grounder, which he took on a short hop, in the 5th . . . Eddie Miller came up with one of his old time stops, when he speared Dee Phillips' grounder back of second and tossed the ball nonchalantly to Woody Williams, forcing Tommy Holmes.

After holding the Reds to one hit, a scratchy two-bagger, Ben Cardoni served two home run balls in the 5th . . . Arnold Carter, the Reds' pitcher bounced a homer off the top of the right center field fence and after Dee Phillips had robbed Woody Williams of a hit by grabbing a low line drive, Max Marshall parked one in the jury box . . . Cardoni would like to lose that home run pitch, which has haunted him in his last two starts.

Connie Ryan watched the last four innings from the press coop . . . Somebody guessed wrong when Arnold Carter picked Workman off first base . . . Cardoni hadn't recovered from the shock of Carter's and Marshall's home runs when he went to the mound for the 7th round . . . He was nicked for two doubles and two singles by the first four Reds to face him in the 7th and but for a great stop back on second by Dee Phillips, which forced Carter, the McKechniemen would have come up with a real big inning.

They got only two runs which, however, gave them a 4 to 1 lead . . . Johnny Orlando kept Bill Conroy and Oscar Judd posted on what the Red Sox were doing in Detroit . . . It was pleasure news that the ticker brought to the stayhomes . . . Judd reports that he is feeling fine, now that he has had his tonsils removed.
